

WORKSHOP ON EDUCATIONAL IT

The Aarhus University Committee on Education invites you to participate in an inspiring seminar on using digital platforms in teaching.

Keynote speaker Professor Jeff Haywood of the University of Edinburgh will give a talk, 'Building a university digital education strategy: Opportunities and challenges to 2025'. In addition, AU teaching staff will present how they incorporate educational IT into their work. Topics including e-books, collaborative teaching and 3D modelling will be addressed.

Before and after the talks, you will have an opportunity to visit one of the many stands where presenters and staff from the university's teaching development centres will be available to answer questions.
